may be down 4.3% in October so far, but optimism around the month's historically bullish trend remains intact. Since 2019, Bitcoin's average October gain has been near 20%, with a median return of about 15%. While this year's performance currently lags, market participants are looking to macroeconomic policy shifts for potential fuel.

The MACD is a popular momentum indicator used in technical analysis that helps traders identify the strength, direction, and duration of a trend in an asset's price.

However, BTC continued to struggle near $105,000, not benefiting from improved risk appetite after regional lenders delivered stronger-than-expected earnings, easing fears of a wider credit contagion.

This suggests that a price rebound may lack the momentum derived from consistent buying pressure, potentially leading to a deeper pullback.

At the frontier, where these structures haven't been established yet, strong individuals can maximally exploit that strength to dominate others. That is freedom to those who want that or otherwise possess heterodox views and wish to exercise them away from propriety's watchful eyes.
