The emergence of smart contracts has brought revolutionary breakthroughs to blockchain technology. These self-executing computer programs can automatically trigger corresponding operations when preset conditions are met, without manual intervention. Smart contracts not only improve transaction efficiency but also greatly reduce trust costs. Currently, smart contracts have been widely applied in decentralized finance (DeFi), digital identity authentication, the Internet of Things, and other fields. With the continuous development of technology, the functions of smart contracts will become more powerful, and application scenarios will become more abundant.

The Average Directional Index, or ADX, sits at 33, well above the critical 25 threshold that confirms a strong trending market. Think of ADX as your “trend strength meter”—it doesn't care about direction, just whether a real trend exists. Below 20, you're in choppy waters where false breakouts are common. Above 25, you've got momentum. At 33, BNB is firmly in trending territory, meaning institutions and retail are moving in the same direction, creating sustained buying pressure that can carry prices significantly higher.

According to a16z, stablecoins collectively hold more than $150 billion in US Treasuries, making them the 17th-largest holder of US government debt, ahead of many sovereign nations.

The price of Bitcoin soared to a new record high during Asia trading hours on nearly $50 billion in trading volume over the last 24 hours, per data from CoinGecko. As bullish traders piled in pushing the price upward, almost $100 million in short positions were liquidated in just one hour, according to CoinGlass. More than $200 million in BTC shorts were turned into forced buyers in the last 24 hours.
