While the funding round marks a significant early win for Tempo—a layer-1 blockchain that will support payment processor Stripe’s aggressive push into crypto—it was not the biggest news about the project that rocked Crypto Twitter on Friday.

If a developer deploys an immutable contract, then the moment an exploit is discovered, without a legal superstructure to support participants, the entire system will become unusable. And it is unrealistic to expect developers to develop perfect code. It is far easier and more effective to implement flexible rules that can be administered by humans (i.e., laws) than it is to imagine, beforehand, every possible risk scenario that could ever arise.

“What that means is that when you remove a result from search under our policies, in addition, what we’ll do is on any query that includes your name—or would be likely to surface that page from search—all explicit results will be filtered,” the spokesperson said. “So not all explicit results will be removed, but all explicit results will be filtered on those searches, which prevents them from appearing on searches where it would be likely to show up.”
