Elkaleh said both platforms are expanding "beyond sports," tapping into real-world events like politics and macroeconomics, and evolving into "real-time sentiment tools."

Chart patterns are shapes formed by price movements that help traders anticipate future market trends. These patterns fall into two main categories: reversal patterns, which signal that a current trend may change direction, and continuation patterns, which suggest the trend will likely resume after a brief pause. They stem from market psychology, where emotions like fear, greed and uncertainty drive collective trading behavior and create recognizable shapes on charts.

Cointelegraph reached out to Paradigm for comment, but did not hear back by the time of writing.

However, this is not all bad news as DATs with strong capital bases and trading-savvy management teams “may still generate meaningful alpha,” they said.

He added that ETF flows could be a strong predictor of whether Bitcoin manages to escape a Red September—even if it did just see a Red August. A month (or any other period time) is considered red if an asset ends at a lower price than it started.
