While some market observers believe that the traditional crypto four-year cycle is about to be broken, analysts told Decrypt this week that they believe some traders are still following the classic rulebook—and selling due to the expectation of falling prices ahead.

More than nine in 10 respondents to a Myriad market believe that Strategy will not sell Bitcoin. (Myriad Markets is a product of DASTAN, the parent company of an editorially independent Decrypt.)

A combination of favorable macroeconomic conditions and surging institutional interest in the digital asset has served Bitcoin well throughout the year, and several analysts recently told Decrypt they expect the appetite for BTC to continue to grow, despite signs of potential exhaustion in the crypto market earlier this week.

Hyperliquid now allows anyone to deploy perpetual futures, for a price

“The shift is driven by the convenience and significant tax benefits offered by ETFs, as well as the ability for major investors to manage their wealth through existing financial advisers and access broader investment/lending services,” Hiesboeck said.
