FalconX was valued at around $8 billion following a 2022 Series D round led by Singapore's sovereign wealth fund GIC and B Capital, more than doubling its valuation from $3.75 billion set after its $210 million Series C in August 2021.

Cross-border payment is one of the important application scenarios of blockchain technology. The traditional cross-border payment process is complex, involving multiple intermediaries, with long settlement time and high fees. In contrast, cross-border payments based on blockchain technology can realize direct peer-to-peer transactions, greatly simplifying the process, shortening settlement time, and reducing costs. Currently, several countries and financial institutions have begun to try using blockchain technology for cross-border payments. With the continuous maturity of technology and the improvement of regulatory frameworks, blockchain cross-border payments are expected to become the mainstream cross-border payment method in the future.

"The markets teach you, you always have to relook at your assumptions," Fink told CBS last week. "There is a role for crypto in the same way there is a role for gold, that is, it's an alternative."

So far, Strategy hasn't issued any common shares this month. Instead, the firm has tapped preferred shares introduced this year, which sometimes entail dividend payments.

Milei has distanced himself from Libra, but crypto research firm Nansen said that traders lost $251 million on it, leaving what Haines views as a novel canvas for fiction.

High-end brands and luxury car dealerships are also entering the crypto payment space. For example, Post Oak Motor Cars in the US accepts Bitcoin for buying super-luxury cars via BitPay. In Europe, platforms like BitCars have built a crypto-only marketplace for premium and classic vehicles.
