That state of affairs could now change imminently. Waller's plan would allow U.S. institutions focused on "payments innovation"—aka, crypto and other emerging financial technologies—to gain their own access to the Fed's services, as opposed to depending on third-party, master account-holding banks.

Lately, however, that decision has moved from tactical to strategic. Beyond developers deciding between ecosystems, big companies are now building their blockchains from scratch. And when the companies doing it are Stripe, Coinbase or other giants with deep regulatory and distribution advantages, the L1 stops being a neutral playing field and starts looking like a moat.
