Last week's surge in the stablecoin market cap to $300 billion and the release of $1 billion in frozen funds from the defunct exchange FTX were key drivers, Stephen Gregory, founder of crypto trading platform Vtrader, told Decrypt.

The increased seven-day hash rate comes as miners wrestle with rising energy costs and lower rewards. After last year's halving, the payoff for miners is 3.125 bitcoin, down from 6.25 previously.

“The plan is really to properly and deeply integrate the LimeWire token into what we’re doing with Fyre,” Zehetmayr told Decrypt. “We definitely want to do some kind of redemption for old holders of tickets as well. I think that’s something where you could involve crypto or even NFTs.”

It also mentioned that A7A5 — a sanctioned ruble-pegged stablecoin issued in Kyrgyzstan — is a major example of this trend as it facilitates cross-border payments for both institutional and business users.

"Ultimately, by decoupling energy infrastructure from mining, HUT will increase its financial flexibility and put itself in a stronger position to execute on growth opportunities at scale while preserving upside exposure to bitcoin through a 64% stake in American Bitcoin," the note read.
