The pivot comes a day after CEA Industries Inc., a Canadian vape company, announced it had acquired 500,000 BNB tokens at an average price about $870 per token.

It also means there is more mining activity on the network as miners expand their operations and use more machines—and power—to continue minting coins.

The sell-off stemmed from renewed trade tensions between the US and China, after reports of potential 100% tariffs on Chinese imports, which rattled risk sentiment. However, as markets stabilized early this week, US stocks began recovering, though Bitcoin's rebound has lagged.
