That state of affairs could now change imminently. Waller's plan would allow U.S. institutions focused on "payments innovation"—aka, crypto and other emerging financial technologies—to gain their own access to the Fed's services, as opposed to depending on third-party, master account-holding banks.

"These protections have already proven to be successful in addressing other types of non-consensual imagery, and we've now built the same capabilities for fake explicit images as well," Google said. "These efforts are designed to give people added peace of mind, especially if they're concerned about similar content about them popping up in the future."

"We have seen that a number of companies have had success with a crypto strategy," the spokesperson said. "A number of our friends and supporters felt we should engage in that area as well. The board decided to start a conservative approach on this and test waters by buying some Bitcoin and Trump coin."
