But not this time. Analysts at the British multinational bank Standard Chartered, who have long been bullish on Bitcoin, don’t think it stops here either. Geoff Kendrick, the bank’s global head of digital assets, said in an investor note published Friday that he expects the price of Bitcoin to reach at least $135,000 in the near term and top $200,000 before the end of the year.

Since the Trump administration’s permissive about-face on crypto policy this year, all manner of crypto institutions have applied for bank charters. Among them: crypto exchange Coinbase, payments processor Stripe, stablecoin issuer Paxos, USDC issuer Circle, and even Sony Bank, the financial arm of the media giant.

The introduction of Google's AI summaries has raised huge red flags for web publishers, however, as users are less likely to visit their sites if the information is extracted and provided up front. The issue is compounded by AI's tendency to hallucinate, and even provide dangerous answers based on flawed sources.
