Back in February, Kaspersky had warned that malware was being distributed through GitHub repositories widely used by coders. If downloaded, it could hijack the victim's keyboard and replace wallet addresses with ones controlled by the attackers.

Countries like Japan and the UAE are creating regulatory frameworks, he added, while India, Hong Kong and Australia "need to openly support such innovations."

"Large banks have shown they'll restrict access for political reasons, targeting industries & individuals they disagree with, including gun manufacturers, digital assets, churches, & even @POTUS," Lummis tweeted while sharing the letter.

Experts say this automation is a crucial source of protection against "the rising tide of software supply chain attacks targeting cryptocurrency," and proves effective even if malware isn't accompanied by social engineering attacks.

"Aussie culture and sense of humour may play into our propensity to engage with meme coin offerings just as much as potential gains. Many see these tokens as a low-stakes way to engage with crypto communities and trends," he said.
