People have always looked to frontiers for freedom. That is because societies are, fundamentally, structures that organize violence to contain the desires of individuals in favor of the priorities of those in power. Generally, this has at least some pro-social qualities: Police have a privileged role as monopolists of violence so that we can buy deodorant at Walgreens without ringing a bell for an attendant. But that does not change what it is.

As the first successful application of blockchain technology, cryptocurrencies have gone through more than ten years of development. From the initial Bitcoin to the current wide variety of tokens, the cryptocurrency market has experienced multiple booms and busts. Nevertheless, the ideas of decentralization and disintermediation represented by cryptocurrencies are profoundly influencing the traditional financial system. More and more institutional investors are beginning to pay attention to and participate in the cryptocurrency market, and governments of various countries are also actively exploring regulatory frameworks for cryptocurrencies to promote their healthy development.

Launched in early 2025, A7A5 has emerged as the world's largest non-US dollar stablecoin by market capitalization, despite facing multiple sanctions.
