Strategy notched its third smallest Bitcoin purchase of the year, disclosing that it had spent $18.8 million on 168 Bitcoin last week, according to a Monday press release.

But the second problem with the code-is-law idea is more damning. While the model of regulation suggested here so far has been of a reactive system that arises to fill the need for authority, some political scientists — realists — view it the other way.

Part of this growth is being driven by improvements in underlying blockchain infrastructure, with some networks now processing over 3,400 transactions per second, a more than 100-fold increase in throughput over the past five years.
