Tokyo Whale stops selling at around 144,000 BTC

Despite growing concerns over VC influence on the blockchain space, the industry still relies on traditional investment funds to attract more mainstream capital for sustained development.

The experts suggest not yet.

Just this week, the Michael Saylor-helmed business intelligence firm spent another $27 million on Bitcoin, shortly before it crashed to current prices, now changing hands at around $111,500.

“To be honest, I don’t think this dump has anything to do with Justin Sun. He barely moved funds to centralized exchanges, and this morning’s transfers were just from one of his addresses to another,” he said. “His latest statement saying he has nothing to do with the dump looks legitimate.”

“While differentiating between this content is a technical challenge for search engines, we’re making ongoing improvements to better surface legitimate content and downrank explicit fake content,” Google said. In regards to CSAM, the Google spokesperson said the company takes this subject very seriously and has dedicated an entire team specially to combat this illegal content.
