But not this time. Analysts at the British multinational bank Standard Chartered, who have long been bullish on Bitcoin, don't think it stops here either. Geoff Kendrick, the bank's global head of digital assets, said in an investor note published Friday that he expects the price of Bitcoin to reach at least $135,000 in the near term and top $200,000 before the end of the year.

While some market observers believe that the traditional crypto four-year cycle is about to be broken, analysts told Decrypt this week that they believe some traders are still following the classic rulebook—and selling due to the expectation of falling prices ahead.

Canaan closed about 28% higher by mid-afternoon. CleanSpark, which on Monday announced that it would become the latest publicly traded miner to pivot resources to artificial intelligence-focused projects, was up roughly 4.5%.
