toward its target of 5% and has only started accumulating the asset in early July, when ETH was hovering around the $2,500 level.

While the previously explained part of the system is trustless, some parts remain non-trustless. Per the white paper, Babylon's Bitcoin vault liquidations utilize whitelisted liquidators to monitor the price and vault state, resulting in a liquidation system that is not permissioned and introduces trust assumptions.

"Fast forward a few years: Corporate chains will end up with the complex tech but without the added value for users, which is no central entity to control them. At that point, these chains will lose the focus from corporates."
