Markets run 24/7, and a growing share of volume comes from high-leverage perpetual futures. That means even small order imbalances can trigger sharp, short-lived moves.

This cycle has also been complicated by the introduction of trade tariffs, which have already trimmed growth in the first half of 2025 and are expected to continue dragging on GDP growth through the first half of 2026.

The first, as is highlighted in Craig's film, is that it is incredibly difficult to build code that is robust enough to regulate human behavior in the range of circumstances it is likely to encounter. This issue comes from a mismatch between the rigid logical nature of code and the fluidity of human behavior.

With Bitcoin setting a then-record price of $67,000 in November 2021 before declining in the months thereafter, that should mean that the cycle is soon coming to an end. And some traders may be betting on that outcome.

The National Hockey League has inked multi-year licensing agreements with prediction market startups Kalshi and Polymarket, marking the first time a major U.S. professional sports league has authorized these platforms to use its trademarks.
