But not this time. Analysts at the British multinational bank Standard Chartered, who have long been bullish on Bitcoin, don't think it stops here either. Geoff Kendrick, the bank's global head of digital assets, said in an investor note published Friday that he expects the price of Bitcoin to reach at least $135,000 in the near term and top $200,000 before the end of the year.

Meanwhile, an X user under the handle Boluson argued that most corporations don't need a blockchain; they are just feeling pressured to adopt the technology over fears of being left behind.

To determine whether Ether whales are truly betting on further downside or simply hedging amid worsening macroeconomic conditions, it is useful to examine top traders' positioning on derivatives exchanges. This metric combines data from futures, margin, and spot markets, offering a clearer view of short-term sentiment.
