The emergence of smart contracts has brought revolutionary breakthroughs to blockchain technology. These self-executing computer programs can automatically trigger corresponding operations when preset conditions are met, without manual intervention. Smart contracts not only improve transaction efficiency but also greatly reduce trust costs. Currently, smart contracts have been widely applied in decentralized finance (DeFi), digital identity authentication, the Internet of Things, and other fields. With the continuous development of technology, the functions of smart contracts will become more powerful, and application scenarios will become more abundant.

Zeta Network Group's chief investment officer, Patrick Ngan, said in a statement shared with Decrypt that the balance-sheet allocation reinforces the group's "long-term financial position," adding that the move could enhance their financial resilience through "an instrument that combines Bitcoin's scarcity with sustainable yield."

Traders who wait for confirmation look for above-average volume and a strong candle close to validate the move. Without those signals, the risk of a trap rises sharply.

Among major layer-1 tokens, he singled out Solana for its standout potential. "Solana remains one of the most interesting assets among major altcoins," Verbitskii noted, citing its strong fundamentals. "If the current market momentum holds, a move toward the $300 to $400 range by year-end looks realistic."

"Blockchain and other innovative technologies can counter these emerging risks. Treasury and other policymakers should promote their use to identify and deter illicit activity."
