It urges updating the Bank Secrecy Act to recognize decentralized IDs and zero-knowledge proofs as valid identity-verification methods.

“These protections have already proven to be successful in addressing other types of non-consensual imagery, and we've now built the same capabilities for fake explicit images as well,” Google said. “These efforts are designed to give people added peace of mind, especially if they're concerned about similar content about them popping up in the future.”

Meanwhile, a new variant of XCSSET has emerged that can take screenshots, record what a user is doing, and steal data from their Telegram account.
