Executives at crypto companies that violate the UK's advertising laws could face two years behind bars and other legal sanctions.

However, the stiff penalties have not stopped crypto advertisements in the country, according to the Financial Times.

The cycle repeats in the early 2020s, with an examination of a lesser-known hack of Indexed Finance. The exploit was allegedly perpetrated by an attacker alternatively named Umbril Upsilon and Zeta Zeros, who would eventually be identified as the teenager Andean Medjedovic.

"These protections have already proven to be successful in addressing other types of non-consensual imagery, and we've now built the same capabilities for fake explicit images as well," Google said. "These efforts are designed to give people added peace of mind, especially if they're concerned about similar content about them popping up in the future."
