“I don’t expect a broad altcoin rally like in previous cycles,” he said. “This time, growth will be likely driven by select, high-quality projects rather than the entire market moving at once.”

In Europe and the US, major fast-food chains like Subway and Burger King continue to accept crypto payments, often through third-party gift card services or payment processors. While not a direct, in-house integration for every location, it’s a simple way for consumers to spend their Bitcoin.

Lee said that when that happened, “The immediate beneficiary was demand and a market to own gold.”

The shift shows that while investors expect the market to remain contained, they are hedging against the risk of a sudden drop.
