Last year alone, over 340,000 learners from over 2,000 colleges, schools and training organisations chose NCFE as the Awarding Organisation to help them move their careers forward. NCFE is a registered educational charity and has a strong heritage in learning, going back over 150 years. With a buzz that sets it apart, NCFE is proud to be recognised for its exceptional customer service and friendly approach. We're a values based company and our values are at the heart of everything we do. NCFE's extensive product catalogue includes a wide range of general and vocationally related qualifications in a variety of subject areas, as well as Competence Based qualifications/NVQs, and Functional Skills qualifications. NCFE is recognised as an Awarding Organisation by the qualification regulators ('regulators') for England, Wales and Northern Ireland. The regulators are the Office of the Qualifications and Examinations Regulator (Ofqual) in England, the Welsh Government in Wales and the Council for Curriculum, Examinations and Assessment (CCEA Regulation) in Northern Ireland. Career Functional Skills English can help you to develop your career or even to access that job you've always wanted. Many employers now look for a Level 2 qualification in English before they consider hiring a candidate for a job. As such, gaining this qualification could be just what you need to give you that boost against the other people applying for the position. English is also really beneficial for your day-to-day life skills. You can write a letter to a company if you need to complain or send an email without worrying if your grammar is correct. You can even practice your skills when in a group conversation. Functional Skills English is also great if you want to help your children with their homework, you'll learn how to help them get the right answer. Functional Skills English can even give you the skills you need to go to university. Many universities now have an entry requirement of a Level 2 in English, so gaining this could be your ticket to studying your degree. You need to check with the university that they accept Functional Skills English before starting your course.
