Mitchnick told Bloomberg that many early adopters now prefer the convenience of managing their holdings through established financial institutions while retaining exposure to Bitcoin's price movements.

"These protections have already proven to be successful in addressing other types of non-consensual imagery, and we've now built the same capabilities for fake explicit images as well," Google said. "These efforts are designed to give people added peace of mind, especially if they're concerned about similar content about them popping up in the future."

The index is now at similar levels to those last seen in April, when Bitcoin dropped to a low of $74,000. It also mirrors levels seen during the 2018 and 2022 bear markets, as shown in the figure below.
