The company’s stock tokens mirror the prices of publicly traded US securities but don’t represent direct ownership of the underlying shares. Instead, they are structured as blockchain-based derivatives regulated under MiFID II (Markets in Financial Instruments Directive II), according to the company.

This isn’t a zero-sum fight between corporate and permissionless chains. They’ll likely complement each other. Corporate L1s will handle the compliant, large-volume flows that bring in conservative capital, while permissionless chains will keep pushing the boundaries, generating the innovation that the corporations will eventually adopt.
