Grayscale has played a central role in the institutionalization of crypto. Founded in 2013, it has grown into one of the world's largest digital asset investment platforms, managing over $35 billion in assets. It has now launched staking-enabled products that bring blockchain yield mechanics into Wall Street's traditional framework.

The results could be sending a complex signal to Wall Street, as the two frontrunners represent two vastly different potential futures for artificial intelligence in finance. fine-tuning—an evolutionary step for today's data-driven firms.

In March 2025, the exchange began moving assets between its wallets, a likely step in preparing for further repayments ahead of the Halloween deadline.

The team promised that Ondo will do for securities what stablecoins have done for dollars, making the tokenized assets tradeable outside of typical market hours and available worldwide.

"The broader setup remains bullish, with a prolonged government shutdown likely to continue driving interest in hard assets and supporting demand for Bitcoin as an alternative store of value," Joe DiPasquale, CEO of crypto asset manager BitBull Capital, told Decrypt on Friday.

But here's where things get interesting: BNB has been riding a powerful parabolic support line since mid-year. The chart shows a clear parabolic advance—the kind that can deliver explosive gains but also tends to end with equally explosive corrections. Looking at the projection, if this trajectory continues uninterrupted, BNB could be trading near $2,000 by December 31, potentially delivering another 67% gain from current levels over the next 89 days.
