Chart patterns are shapes formed by price movements that help traders anticipate future market trends. These patterns fall into two main categories: reversal patterns, which signal that a current trend may change direction, and continuation patterns, which suggest the trend will likely resume after a brief pause. They stem from market psychology, where emotions like fear, greed and uncertainty drive collective trading behavior and create recognizable shapes on charts.

Butterfill said that Bitcoin's "correction, and the subsequent liquidity cascades seen a week ago," are still reverberating through the industry, prompting some crypto-natives to further liquidate, adding that crypto market sentiment was generally bearish.

June, Hut 8 received a $150 million investment from tech-focused investment manager Coatue Management, to help the company “capitalize” on the growing demand for AI computing power.

BTC’s current price action closely resembles the March–April bottom range, when sharp intra-day wicks cleared out liquidity built over 30 days before a gradual recovery began. The pattern suggested that BTC could retest the $100,000 range without necessarily breaking the broader bullish structure, unless it falls decisively below that level.
